Chew Jackson's Best Sweet Navy Tobacco.
The snow did not fall very deep, only about two inches, but it hangs on well.

The ice harvest continues, and interrupts the skaters. All the wagons not employed hauling coal are still gathering in the frozen diamonds.

Mr. Jas. Clark, from the Louisville and Nashville route, has been transferred to the Bristol and Chattanooga line, and made head postal clerk instead of Mr. R. B. McGaughey, who has gone to California.

The last great auction sale of pictures, paintings, etc., will be made by E. A. Akers to-night. He also advertises a large sale of pianos, buggies, furniture, etc., this morning at 11 o'clock.

Strong's store, on Market Square, is closed, with crape on the door, on account of the death, mentioned elsewhere, of Dr. Strong, the honored father of Messrs. Rush and Ab. Strong, of that establishment. The boys have gone up to attend the last rites, having only been notified by telegraph late yesterday evening. In their sad bereavement they have the heartfelt sympathy of all their friends and customers in the city and surrounding country.

Personal.

Capt. J. Scott Payne, of the Fifth Cavalry, U. S. Army, accompanied by his wife and little daughter, is in the city on a visit to relatives and friends. The Captain is just in from the Indian frontier. They will receive a hearty welcome from many friends.

Lieut. H. H. Ludlow, of the regular army, son of our fellow-townman, Dr. J. R. Ludlow, is now en route home to spend a brief furlough. He comes from the headquarters in Nebraska, and will arrive about the 30th inst.

To meet present competition and to close out Winter Clothing, I have determined to sell goods at cost for cash for 40 days. This is no humbug, I do not want to carry over winter goods.

Died.

Dr. Joseph C. Strong died at his residence in this county yesterday. He was born in Knox county on Christmas day, 1808, and resided here nearly his entire life. He was a man of marked integrity and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of those who knew him. As a physician, he had quite a large practice for years, and gave entire satisfaction to his patrons. His father was also a physician, and for a great many years proprietor of a drug store in Knoxville. He has been confined to his bed for a long time, and although his recovery was looked upon as impossible, his death was rather unexpected. His remains will be interred in the family burial ground at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

A few Overcoats, at unprecedented prices.

The Sleighting Season.

Although the sleighting season was not so auspicious yesterday morning as was expected, the snow being too light, still a great many sleighs were gotten in readiness for the enjoyment of the fun and the cheerful jingling of the bells was frequently heard throughout the day. Some of the sleighs were of a very substantial, comfortable and ingenious character. The one which attracted most attention was a very handsome sleigh, made by Mr. Jas. McCampbell, of Lyons & McCampbell's. His runners and frame work were made of gas pipe, with a very neat bed, and it skims over ground very nicely indeed.

Correction.

DEC. 27, 1878.

MR. EDITOR: I would be glad if your "Local" would learn not to use my name in vain. I am reported as having seen Van Johnson and decided that his arm must be amputated. I do not know, and have never seen Van Johnson. Joe Capps, however, I did see a few hours after his injury. His jaw was not broken, and he was sitting up this morning at the table eating his breakfast.

Yours, J. R. LUDLOW.

The Ice Harvest.

Every available wagon and team in the city and surrounding country has been employed, for the past two days, gathering in the ice from the surrounding ponds, and it will still continue till all the houses are filled. Yesterday the ice was splendid, about or inches thick.

CHRISTMAS DAY.

Some of the Observances and Celebrations in Knoxville.

RELIGIOUS OBSERVANCES.

At St. John's Episcopal Church appropriate religious services were held at the forenoon hour, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Thos. Duncan, who preached an excellent Christmas sermon. Some splendid music was furnished by the choir, specially prepared for the occasion. A good congregation was in attendance.

The Epiphany Episcopal Church on Broad street, North Knoxville, was also well attended at the morning hour for services, and an appropriate and highly instructive sermon from the pastor, Rev. A. A. McDonough, was listened to, and it was attended with good music and other appropriate Christmas services.

In the afternoon the Welsh Church, in Mechanicsville, was well filled with young and old to witness the Christmas exercises at that church, which proved to be quite interesting indeed. The services were conducted by Rev. R. D. Thomas, the pastor, Hon. David Richards and others. Short and appropriate talks were made by Rev. Isaac Emory, Rev. Mr. Barker, Hon. David Richards and others. Several of the little folks gave some entertaining recitations also, and the whole was interspersed by some splendid music furnished by the young folks. A tea party, in the basement brought the entertainment to a close and was also much enjoyed by all.

CHRISTMAS TREES.

The Third Presbyterian Church, on Fifth avenue, was literally thronged at night, and in fact all were not able to obtain sitting room, it being the occasion of the Christmas tree and other festivities at that church. A beautiful, large tree had been arranged, handsomely bedecked with the presents to be distributed, and there were other neat and appropriate decorations. Addresses suitable to the occasion were made by Rev. R. D. Thomas and Mr. J. A. Rayl. Mr. W. H. Simmonds, the Superintendent, who had charge of affairs, then called up some of the scholars who were to receive prizes, as follows: Misses Mary McDonald and Lillie Simmonds, for committing the Shorter Catechism; Miss Leona Cooley, for committing the Catechism, with Scriptural proofs; Mr. Charley Ross, for bringing in the most new scholars during the past year. The latter was a $2 gold piece, the others were nice books and albums. Some excellent music was furnished at intervals by the choir. The presents were then distributed from the tree, and all went away highly pleased with the entertainment, and many were the hearty congratulations by the little mementoes distributed.

The Sunday-school of the German Lutheran Church had their Christmas celebration at night, also, and it attracted a good turnout. The exercises, which were all in German, were conducted by Rev. J. G. Schadt, the pastor, who made an appropriate talk in German. Besides music there were recitations by the scholars and other exercises. A handsome tree had been erected, which was beautifully ornamented and decorated, and at the close the presents were distributed among the merry-hearted children of the school. This feature was productive of much satisfaction and enjoyment, and all went away with light hearts.

THE SELECT HOP.

Given at the Atkin House by some young men of the city, although the attendance was not so large as was desired, proved to be a very enjoyable affair, and quite a number of couples passed the night till the small hours in the enjoyment of the merry dance, to music furnished by Luther Kyle's string band, with Alf. McKeehan prompting. Refreshments were served in good style and everything passed off very pleasantly indeed.

Hymenial.

Mr. Stephen P. Condon, a universally popular and enterprising young business man of our city, was married Thursday in Chattanooga to Miss Annie Morrow, a beautiful, accomplished and talented young lady of Nashville, though extensively known in Knoxville. Father John the Catholic priest performed the ceremony. The couple with attendants arrived here on last night's train, where they were met by friends. We wish them untold joy and happiness. To-night a rare season of festivity and merriment is in store for them as well as all who are favored with an invitation. It is a grand reception to be tendered by the Washington-Emmett Club at the Atkin House, to begin at 8 o'clock. Among other interesting exercises will be an elegant silver service presentation by Mr. F. J. Callahan. The CHRONICLE acknowledges the compliment of an invitation.

Christmas Temperance Lectures.

The irrepressible Toad Sharp, well known in criminal circles, after a big drunken spree Christmas eve, was picked up on Gay street, near Nelson's shop, early Christmas morning, frozen within an inch of her life—unable to speak. She was taken to the city hall and thawed out. Dr. John Levi was called to attend her, and although at first no one thought she could recover, after a few hours' treatment she was all right again, apparently at least, restored to sensibility; but yesterday, as we learn, she was thought to be in dying condition, almost.

Jo. Capps, a white man, who drives one of Gaines Harrell's teams, met with a serious, and what will perhaps prove a fatal accident, Wednesday morning. While driving along with a load of ice, near Dr. Tadlock's office, he fell from the wagon, being under the influence of liquor, the wagon ran over his head and his jaw bone was broken in two places, besides other bruises. Medical attention was summoned and all the relief given him that was possible, but at latest accounts his life was almost despaired of.

Van Johnson, colored, another of Gaines Harrell's drivers was dangerously shot between 6 and 7 o'clock the same night. He was also taking a little Christmas spree, and was being taken home by Charley Ballard, when at the corner of Crozier and Union streets some one fired two or three shots at Van from a concealed place. Charley stepped around to tell them to let up on it when whoever it was threatened to shoot him. Another shot was afterwards fired from a large navy pistol which took effect in Van's left arm, shattering the bones of the arm in a frightful manner, and also entering his side and lodging under his shoulder blade. No resistance was made and the parties disappeared. Dr. Ludlow dressed the wounds, and it was his decision the arm would have to come off to save his life, though the operation had not been performed at latest accounts and he was suffering very much.

A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Lum Martin, on suspicion of having done the shooting, and he was arraigned before Justice Allison, but Johnson not being able to appear, the trial was continued till Saturday morning.

These are some of the most dangerous effects of drink which occurred Christmas, and a more telling temperance lecture is scarcely needed. Don't fail to go early to R. Vestal's for great bargains in Clothing. The stock must and will be sold low until closed out. H. W. HALL, Assignee.
